SECTION I.

STATISTICS

ORGANIZED RELIGION

IN THE

UNITED STATES

STATISTICAL SOURCES

The authoritative source book for statistics in organized religion in the United States is the Federal compilation "Religious Bodies, 1926, Vol. I and II" published by the Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census. This compilation was made in 1926 and published several years later. It was a well-organized census under the direction of Leon E. Truesdell, chief statistician for population, and Timothy F. Murphy, expert special agent, taking full advantage of the assistance of denominational officers and—in the case of some loosely organized groups—of specially designated investigators.

Another in the series of religious censuses was due in 1936. Appropriations for this purpose however were denied by the House committee but money from other sources was provided. The census however was delayed until 1938 and then was greatly affected by lack of cooperation from certain religious bodies and by insufficient clerical provision. It is uncertain when the material that has been collected will be released. It is not certain that the material that will be released will be as comprehensive and accurate as the compilation of 1926.

Meanwhile the "Christian Herald" published a compilation of membership statistics in its 60th anniversary number, in October, 1938, collected by Rev. H. C. Weber (in succession to Rev. G. L. Kieffer, deceased, former statistical authority of the "Herald"). This compilation omitted the large number of minor religious bodies, summarizing them under one category.

In the January 14, 1939, issue of "Information Service," a weekly publication of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, a detailed compilation of religious bodies in the United States was published, believed to be the most authoritative yet presented. This compilation made by the editor of the YEAR-BOOK is the basis of the statistical tables which follow. The editor has had remarkable cooperation from the great majority of the officials of the many bodies represented, who are charged with statistical responsibility. The cost of this compilation has been borne by the Federal Council and is offered as a service to organized religion of all faiths.

Below, the yearbooks or other statistical source-books of many of the larger bodies are listed. The list is imperfect. It should be enlarged and the assistance of clerks and statisticians of other bodies is earnestly asked in making the list more complete.

TABLE VIII REVIEW OF RELIGIOUS BODIES ARRANGED IN FAMILY GROUPS OR CONNECTIONS

(These groupings are made with some diffidence and are of course exposed, as they should be, to criticism. They attempt however to make the confusion which the 200 listed religious bodies in the United States present less puzzling. The larger bodies are listed first in alphabetical order, followed by the smaller bodies also alphabetically arranged. The details are included in this presentation to provide the basis for future classifications which may be suggested as more illuminating)

Α

MAJOR BODIES

(50,000 Members or More)

В

MINOR BODIES

(Less than 50,000 Members)

(Check List of All Bodies, Official Names and Other Common Designations: Pages 195 to 202)

Note: In this Directory the religious bodies are arranged alphabetically and by their official names. If the official name is not known, consult the Check-List on pages 195-202, which contains the official name (in caps), the key classification (as, e.g., Baptist) and the colloquial designation (as, e.g., "Quakers," for "Friends").

In the 1937 Yearbook the Directory grouped the bodies by family or relationship. In the tables of statistics in this edition, as well as in the Directory, the alphabetical arrangement is adopted. Families or Groups are however carefully presented in the tables on pages 12-16, both major and minor bodies in their primary, though not always in their secondary, relationships.

It is believed that this Directory is more complete than any heretofore offered.

GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCH (HELLENIC)

Greek-speaking Orthodox Christians have had scattered parishes in the U. S. for the last seventy years. These were first under the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan of Athens and later under the Patriarchate of Constantinople. Political changes in Europe have been reflected in this country and have brought difficulties in all branches of the Orthodox Church. In 1931 a general convention was held in New York City, under the presidency of Archbishop Athenagoras which brought a large measure of unity and order.

METHODIST CHURCH

On April 26, 1939, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and the Methodist Protestant Church, having each approved the plan for unification both in General and in the annual conferences by overwhelming majorities, will meet for the final act of union. The Plan of Union may be found in the May 19, 1938, issue of the Christian Advocate. In view of this projected climax to a long series of unification efforts, the Yearbook presents these three bodies under the heading (which will be the name of the united Church) the Methodist Church:

- (A) Methodist Episcopal Church
- (B) Methodist Episcopal Church, South
- (C) Methodist Protestant Church

(A) METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

In 1736-37, John and Charles Wesley, leaders of a great revival movement in England, spent some time preaching to the settlers and the Indians in Georgia. Philip Embury began to preach and organized a class-meeting in New York City in 1766. A little later Robert Strawbridge began to preach in Maryland. In 1771, Francis Asbury, later the first bishop, landed in Philadelphia. In July, 1773, the first conference of Methodist preachers was held and at Christmas time in 1784 the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized at Baltimore. On April 26, 1939, this body together with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and the Methodist Protestant Church, will unite to form the Methodist Church.

Churches: 24,295. Inclusive Membership: 4,364,342. Membership 13 years of age and over: 3,980,280.

GENERAL ORGANIZATION

General Conference, quadrennial.

NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

The early historic local independency of Baptist churches in America tended to impede the early instoric local independency of baptist churches in America tended to impede the formation of any general organization until in 1814 a General Missionary Convention was formed to permit Baptists to express themselves in terms of missionary activities. In 1845 the state conventions in the South withdrew to organize the Southern Baptist Con-vention. In 1907 the Northern Baptist Convention was organized, a delegated body, under whose direction the many agencies of the Baptists in the North and West now operate.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

The largest single body of Christians in the U. S., the Roman Catholic Church is under the spiritual leadership of His Holiness Pope Pius XII. This body dates back to the priests who accompanied Columbus on his second voyage to the New World. A settlement, later discontinued, was made at St. Augustine, Fla. The continuous history of this Church in the colonies began at St. Mary's, in Maryland, in 1634.

Churches: 18,428, Inclusive Membership: 21,322,688, Membership 13 years of age and over: 15.492.016.

(Owing to limitations of space very incomplete data for this body can be presented. The following information has been furnished by the editor of the Official Catholic Directory, published by P. J. Kenedy and Sons, 18 Barclay St., New York, N. Y. Reference to this complete volume will provide adequate information.)

Head of the Church

His Holiness the Pope, Bishop of Rome and Vicar of Jesus Christ, Successor of St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of the Temporal Dominions of the Holy Roman Church and Sovereign of Vatican City,

THE PROTESTANT CHURCHES

The biennium, 1937 and 1938, brought a far reaching self consciousness to the larger Protestant bodies in the United States. The tensions abroad, some of them quite disastrous to some forms of organized religion, deeply concerned Protestant leadership in America, and brought first a deep interest in the appraisal of religion in the world, and second, a fundamental interest in resources both spiritual and material.

This self consciousness evidenced itself in two directions particularly. -one, a direct approach of Protestantism through its major unifying body, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, to its constituency through a Preaching Mission. The Rev. E. Stanley Jones, a famous missionary leader from India, headed up a mission in the autumn of 1936 which reached twenty-four strategic centers. On this mission outstanding preachers and some very well known laymen, both men and women. attracted over two million persons and contacted especially over 35,000 ministers of all persuasions.

The success in 1936 suggested a continuation of the Mission through 1937. The following list of centers visited in 1937 was as follows:

Salt Lake City, Utah ... Sept. 26-29 Portland, Maine Oct. 21-24 Albany, Schenectady,

Troy, N. Y.Oct. 24-27
Charleston, W. Va.Oct. 28-31
Cincinnati, OhioOct. 31-Nov. 3
Richmond, Va.Nov. 4- 7
Shreveport, La.Nov. 11-14
Tulsa, Okla.Nov. 14-17

Wichita, Kans.Nov. 18-21 Quincy, III.-Hannibal,

Mo.-Keokuk, Ia. Nov. 21-24 Jacksonville, Fla. Dec. 2-5

The teams with their diverse makeup illustrated in an unusually fine way the cooperative side of American Protestantism and greatly re-enforced the tendency toward unitive effort.

As a seguel to the success of the Preaching Mission, the Federal Council. Department of Evangelism, developed a plan for reaching the American campus. A national committee was organized early in 1937, on which a number of youth and educational groups were represented, with Mary E. Woolley, formerly of Mt. Holyoke College, as honorary chairman, and President John A. Mackay, of Princeton Seminary, as chairman. The total of 48 speakers including E. Stanley Jones of India, T. Z. Koo of China, Sam Higginbottom, of India, and the Rt. Hon. Margaret Grace Bondfield of England, participated in this plan. The following missions were held during 1938:

University of Ohio.....Jan. 16-23 University of N. Carolina.Jan. 23-28 University of Wisconsin..Feb. 20-27 University of Oregon and

Oregon State College . . Oct. 2- 7 University of Washington . Oct. 9-14 University of Colorado and

Colorado State Teachers'

CollegeOct. 16-21 University of Kansas....Oct. 23-28 State University of IowaOct. 30-Nov. 4 University of Illinois....Nov. 6-11 University of Nebraska..Nov. 13-18 Not only did the student bodies in the universities respond to the Mission speakers and message, but faculty bodies were receptive and cooperative. The missions were successful enough to warrant their continuance during the early months of 1939.

Church Union

The second manifestation of the growing self consciousness of Protestantism was the extraordinary interest which developed in church union. In 1937, two ecumenical conferences were held under the auspices of two groups, one the Universal Christian Council for Life and Work, the other, the World Conference on Faith and Order. Both were held in England, one at Oxford, the other at Edinburgh. Both were delegated meetings with representation from all major Protestant groups and from the Eastern Orthodox Church.

Inasmuch as these conferences met under the shadow of political crises on the Continent of Europe in which organized religion was concerned, the discussions were largely centered on the place, limitations and the nature of the Church. Each conference appointed a committee to consider the possibility of a World Council.

This committee was established and during the summer of 1938, met in Holland, formulated a tentative constitution and submitted it for the consideration of all the Churches involved. This tentative constitution is provided as an important document for reference purposes on pages 168-171.

During the year 1938, the material which had been submitted for study preparatory to the Oxford and Edinburgh conferences, as well as the findings and other matter which resulted from the discussions, received wide circulation and study. Local conferences were held throughout the country, the delegates who participated in the conferences in England were given a wide hearing and many phases of the relationship of Church and state and of the Church and world order were critically studied.

One result was the formulation of a proposal by Pres. A. W. Palmer of the Theological Seminary of the Congregational Church in Chicago, for a world conference on economics, to be sponsored by the Churches. This proposal has met with difficulties because of the development of European crises.

Meanwhile, moves towards union among the Protestant bodies were accelerated. The Methodist Churches approached their projected union with their final success in the voting of the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in April, at Birmingham, Ala. This large Methodist body had once before acted favorably on the proposed union in its general conference, but had not been able to obtain the required maiority of endorsing votes in its annual conferences. However, in 1937, the annual conferences passed the union proposals by a vote of 7,650 to 1,247, and this vote was confirmed in the general conference by a vote of 434 to 26. The other two bodies, the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Protestant Church, had already fully approved the plan of union. A small group of retired bishops and laymen in the Southern Church, opposed the union at the general conference, and were reported at the end of the year to be threatening legal action.

The act of union was scheduled to take place on April 26, 1939. The name of the resulting body of seven and three-quarter million members, will be the Methodist Church. It will report about 45,000 congregations and 21,000 clergy. The merged body will be divided into six "jurisdictions:" the Western (358,995 members), the South Central (1,395,-840), the Southeastern (2,090,204), the Northeastern (1,615,284), the North Central (1,753,514) and the Central (284,705).

In 1937, the Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, addressed a communication to the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., suggesting the union of these two bodies. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church unanimously endorsed the proposal in June, 1938, and appointed its committee on cooperation and union to begin negotiations with a committee appointed by the Convention. These committees, meeting in 1938, together explored the resemblances and the differences in their two communions. They reached an agreement on a protocol for uniting local groups not adequately provided for by sacramental or pastoral arrangements. The protocol is reproduced in the documentation section, pages 177-179, because of its practical and simple approach to a difficult ecclesiastical problem. It will be referred to the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1939, and to the Episcopal Convention in 1940 for action.

1937. another attempt bring closer connection between the Southern Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., met with defeat in the Southern Assembly. A committee, however, was set up to continue investigation of the possibility of union. This committee. made up of members from all synods of the Southern Church, was found, on organization, to be much less conservative than had been expected. It resumed conversations with the committee on cooperation and union of the larger branch, and unexpected progress has been reported during the year.

The union of the Evangelical Synod and the Reformed Church in the United States which was effected in 1934 on the basis of good will, and without commitments of any kind, has been progressing quietly from stage to stage. Some of the boards of the two former bodies have already been merged. Others are nearing consolidation. The new synods have been steadily organized. One difficulty, the indebtedness of the two bodies and some of their boards, has been troublesome, but it is believed that this problem will be shortly solved and final and full merger effected.

The Lutheran bodies have been studying the differences which have separated them into three main groups which have been suspicious of fellowship and cooperation. It was, however, reported recently that a formula had been agreed upon which would remove some doctrinal strife and permit pulpit exchange and intercommunion. The formula (a certain view of the Scriptures) was felt by outsiders, however, to be a barrier to closer relations with bodies outside the Lutheran field.

The Federal Council met in December, 1938, and considered an application from the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox Church for membership. Its primate, the Very Rev. Antony Bashir, appeared before the Council. His Church was unanimously elected to membership in what had been up to this time a purely Protestant organization. This election marked a distinct transition for the Council. During the year the Polish National Catholic Church became a member of the Federation of Churches of Chicago.

A new commission was set up by the Federal Council, April 2, 1937, for the study of Christian Unity. The Rev. H. Paul Douglass was made the secretary, with Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, former president of the Council as its chairman. The Commission succeeded beyond expectation during its first year in establishing itself as a recognized center of leadership in thought and study about Christian unity. The Presbyterian General Assembly referred two important overtures to it for exploration and conference. Regional conferences were held. Dr. Douglass was elected editor of CHRISTENDOM. an established religious quarterly, which came under the direction of the American Sections of the Life and Work and Faith and Order Movements (see page 22) during the year. This scholarly review of ecumenical Christianity becomes the organ of the unity movement.

The Holiness Movement

Some interest was aroused during the biennium by the apparent growth of marginal bodies with special interest in emotional religious observances and in premillenial or "pentecostal" beliefs. A fairly large number of organized groups were discovered especially among the Negroes in the South, some of which were claiming membership of five to ten thousand followers, and others like Father Divine's movement, claiming millions.

In the statistical section forty of these bodies are listed, most of them of some years standing. In addition to this, however, it is believed the 1936 religious census will discover as many more, most of them it is true, rather small, but many of them with some possible survival value. A very interesting treatment of many of these small sects was published in 1937, "The Small Sects in America" (Cokesbury), by Elmer T. Clark. The numbers, however, compared with the bulk of membership of organized religion, are not very great, amounting to less than two per cent of the total.

The Northern Baptists

The Northern Baptist Convention met at Milwaukee, Wis., May 26, 1938. Three thousand delegates were in attendance. The keynote address of the Convention was delivered by the retiring president, the Rev. Earl

V. Pierce, of Minneapolis. His successor was a layman, A. J. Hudson, of Cleveland, an attorney and an active Baptist leader.

Complaint was voiced in the denominational press that the Convention did not express itself on world problems. "Any stranger present would hardly have been aware of a smouldering international volcano, of a tottering social order, of humanity's moral chaos, and its worship of strange gods, its resort to gambling and alcohol to escape the realities of life and of the doom that threatens civilization" (Missions, June, 1938). On the other hand, the attitude of the Convention toward the proposed World Council of Churches was cordial and the question of affiliation of the Northern Baptist Convention with it, was referred to the committee on relations with other religious bodies for report at the next Convention.

Some curtailing of unified promotional work was decided upon due to decrease in receipts, but there were also indications that a convention-wide emphasis on local church work was beginning to meet with very appreciable success.

The Southern Baptists

The Southern Baptist Convention met at Richmond, Va., May 12, 1938, with five thousand messengers in attendance. The retiring president was the Rev. John R. Sampey, of the Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky. Another seminary head, the Rev. L. R. Scarborough, president of the Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex., was elected in his place. Very strong criticism of the Edinburgh Conference on Faith and Order was voiced by the Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke of England, the executive secretary of the Baptist World Alliance. He insisted that this Conference had done harm through its pressure for what he called, "a mechanical union." Over-emphasized ecclesiasticism, in his judgment, would smother the simplicities of the Gospel and do harm in widening the cleavages in Christendom.

The retiring president, Dr. Sampey, who had attended the conferences in England, and the Rev. George W. discussed the ecumenical movement and interdenominational relations. A proposal was made for a study of the fellowship of churches in connection with the proposed World Council of Churches, but was rejected by an overwhelming vote. The convention was content to offer cooperation "in every worthy endeavor for the moral and social uplift of humanity," but turned from the "manmade union" or "monopolies fraught with many perils and too carnal to be safe."

The Convention was greatly concerned over its extensive property losses in the sections of China occupied by the Japanese.

The Disciples of Christ

About two thousand delegates attended the international convention of the Disciples of Christ, at Denver, Colo., October 16, 1938. The Convention was called to order by the Rev. Frederick H. Kershner, president of Butler University. The convention elected as his successor, the Rev. Roger T. Nooe, pastor of the Vine Street Church, Nashville, Tenn.

The retiring president in his opening address, discussed "The Church, One, Holy, and Apostolic." When the proposal to adhere to the World Council of Churches was introduced. Dr. Kershner's address with further discussions by Henry Smith Leiper, the Rev. Graham Frank, secretary of the convention, and the Rev. Edgar DeWitt Jones, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, obtained an unanimous agreement. This agreement was followed by the immediate raising of the financial support for the World Council asked from the Disciples.

The convention procedures were characterized by great unity in spite of the fact that very diverse views were presented from the platform.

The Congregational and Christian Churches

The biennial council of this body met on June 15, 1938, at Beloit, Wis. Roger W. Babson retired from the moderatorship and was succeeded by the Rev. Oscar E. Maurer, pastor of the Center Church, New Haven, Conn.

The Rev. Douglas Horton, of Chicago, became the successor to the Rev. Charles E. Burton, retiring secretary of the Council of the Church. The Council for Social Action, established at the last assembly, was provided with a new director, Prof. Dwight Bradley, Andover-Newton Theological Seminary. He will be associated with the Rev. Hubert Herring who will set up his office in Washington, D. C., for the study of the relations of church and state.

The Protestant Episcopal Church

This body will not have its convention meeting until 1940. Its 1937 convention took important action in declaring a purpose to achieve organic union with the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. On October 28, its commission, consisting of Bishop Edward L. Parsons, Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins, and Dr. Francis J. Bloodgood met with the representatives of the General Assembly to begin negotiations.

During the year the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of Virginia, was made president of the National Council, and presiding bishop of the Church. The staff of the National Council was adjusted during the year. The Rev. Charles Wildred Sheerin was made second vice president in charge of promotional work and he announced the establishment of a department of parochial aid in charge of William L. Richards,-a bureau of secular and religious press relations in charge of the Rev. John W. Irwin and a division of radio and visual education in charge of the Rev. G. Warfield Hobbs.

The United Lutheran Church

This body met at Baltimore, Md., October 5, 1938. The Rev. Frederick H. Knubel was re-elected president. He has served in this office since the merging of the several bodies which formed the United Church twenty years ago. An effort was made to establish the episcopal office in the United Lutheran Church (familiar enough in the Swedish Lutheran body) but it was defeated.

The right of women to sit at conventions of the Church and its synods and the right to serve on boards and committees was upheld on scriptural and constitutional grounds by a commission. The proposal to cooperate in the establishment of a World Council of Churches received tentative approval pending the adoption of a final form of constitution.

Great interest was shown as always, in the proposals to bring the separated groups of Lutherans into cooperation and unity. The United Lutheran Church has always taken the initiative in this work, but expressed itself as desirous of having approaches made by other groups.

The American Lutheran Conference

This body held its biennial convention at Racine, Wis., on December 9, 1938. It was called to order by the retiring president, the Rev. G. W. Gullixson. As his successor, the Rev. E. E. Ryden, of Rock Island, III., editor of the LUTHERAN COMFANION, was elected.

This body is composed of five synodical bodies which are predominantly Scandinavian and hold a doctrinal position midway between the United Church and the Synodical Conference whose largest group is the very conservative Missouri Synod.

The American Conference appointed a commission to study a closer unity with the more liberal United Church and with the Synodical Conference.

The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

This, the largest body of Presbyterians in the world, met in Philadelphia, May 26, 1938. The General Assembly observed its 150th anniversary. About 10,000 visitors were present. The retiring moderator, the Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, preached the opening sermon. The Rev. Charles W. Welch, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Louisville, Ky., was elected moderator. There were a number of candidates for this office, but a rousing appeal for the election of a Southerner to promote union with the Southern Presbyterian Church, brought an overwhelming vote for Dr. Welch.

Many notable public meetings were arranged. One of them, a massive reproduction of the session of the First Assembly, another an observance of the Wesley anniversary, drew enormous audiences. The Board Foreign Missions observed its 100th anniversary during the year. A fund of half a million dollars was contributed by the churches for the restoration of some of its depression-affected work. Robert E. Speer, for many years its senior secretary, retired from active service. The greatly respected stated clerk of the Assembly, the Rev. Lewis Seymour Mudge, also retired from active service, becoming emeritus stated clerk. As successor in this powerful office in the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William Barrow Pugh of Chester, Pa., was unanimously elected.

The Assembly unanimously approved the proposal submitted by the Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1937, proposing negotiations looking toward an organic union.

The Methodists

Of the three Methodist bodies which have been gradually working toward union, only the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, had a quadrennial conference during 1938. This was an important meeting, however, because from it was expected the last decision which would make the proposed Methodist Church possible. The conference met at Birmingham. Ala., April 28, 1938, and ratified the merger by a decisive vote. The judicial council of the Church took a number of technical legal objections to the merger under consideration, but presented a unanimous opinion concerning the legality of the proposed plan. This cleared the way for action and the last required decision was registered.

It was necessary for the conference before its dissolution to elect seven bishops preparatory to setting up the new Methodist Church. The following were chosen:

Ivan Lee Holt, of St. Louis
William Walter Peele, of the Western North Carolina Conference
Clare Purcell, of Gadsden, Ala.
Charles C. Selecman, of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.
John Lloyd Decell, of Jackson, Miss.
William C. Martin, of Dallas, Texas
William T. Watkins, of the School of Theology of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC FIELD

Catholic Events

Perhaps the most significant Catholic event of the year in the United States was the proclamation by the American Hierarchy of a "Catholic crusade" for "true Christian democracy," calling forth the full resources of the Church in this country to the preservation of free American institutions and the building of a better social order. The call to this crusade followed the inauguration by the Catholic University of America of its golden jubilee, at the convocation of which a message was read from Pope Pius XI calling upon the Bishops of this country to "evolve a constructive program of social action, fitted in its details to the local needs, which will command the admiration and acceptance of all right-thinking men."

The beatification of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini at the Vatican on November 14, marked the first time that an American citizen has been raised to the altars of the Church. His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, who officiated at Mother Cabrini's funeral in Chicago, also officiated at the beatification ceremonies. The death of His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, evoked expressions of regret throughout the world, indicating that the Cardinal was widely esteemed as a great religious leader.

In New Orleans, La., the Eighth National Eucharistic Congress was a significant demonstration of faith, with more than 100,000 persons taking part in the great procession in honor of the Blessed Sacrament. Revision of the Douay-Rheims version of the New Testament was completed during the year and placed in the hands of the Editorial Board of the Catholic Biblical Association of America. Other outstanding events of the year were the Fourth National Catechetical Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, with 17,000 delegates attending; the National Conference of Catholic Charities, at which the work of the Church in the fields of charity and social and economic welfare was discussed; and the 18th annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women in Biloxi, Miss., with 300 delegates attending.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference

The annual meeting of the American Bishops was held at the Catholic University of America in November. Reports of expanding activity in the various fields embraced by the departments and bureaus of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and their affiliated organizations were considered. The Bishops addressed themselves in a spirit of paternal solicitude to both Catholics and non-Catholics, urging all to study carefully the great social encyclicals of Pope Pius XI and Pope Leo XIII and to work for the application of their principles in the life of today. They urged "the universal application of the Perfect Law of Liberty prescribed by our Divine Savior: that we know and love God above all things and our neighbor as ourselves," as the fundamental remedy for the disordered conditions that stand as a menace to domestic peace and concord among nations.

The Bishops gave attention to the plight of the increasing numbers of Catholic refugees from Germany, Austria and other countries. Anti-Semitism, pan-Germanism and other forms of ultra-nationalism were condemned as directly opposed to the true Brotherhood of Man and destructive of the "very basis of Catholic ideology." An Episcopal Committee on Youth was empowered to set up a National Catholic Youth Council to aid in the expansion and coordination of Catholic activities for youth throughout the nation. Steps were taken to develop the campaign against salacious literature on a national scale, a special committee being appointed to consider the matter. The Catholic Press was asked to publish complete lists of the Legion of Decency. Plans were considered to render more widespread and effective the work of religious instruction by holding provincial catechetical congresses throughout the year, and the Bishops lent their efforts to further the work of the Bureau of Information, a new informational service founded during the year, national in scope and designed to disseminate correctional and informative information concerning Catholic doctrine. teaching, and practices.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, which functions under the Executive Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, reported that 89 archdioceses and dioceses now have an official director of the Confraternity. The Bureau of Immigration of the Conference reported on its work during the year as follows: "Immigrants and emigrants assisted at the ports, 14,826; interviews in behalf of migrants and other 103,753: communications. 56.289; assistance to clergy, Religious, candidates, etc., 2,321; assisted with naturalization, 1048."

Education

The Department of Education of the Conference furnished statistical material to the President's Advisory Committee on Education concerning the growth of Catholic schools, teacher training, estimates of expenditures for education, and library facilities. Of $21,750,000 allocated from federal funds to finance the student aid program of the National Youth Administration for 1938-39, it was reported that a total of 5.978 students in 168 Catholic colleges and universities received aid amounting to $807,125. Some loss in enrollment in elementary schools was attributed to the nation-wide decrease in the birth rate noted for the past few years. Increases were reported in the enrollment at Catholic colleges, universities and high schools. Enrollments in seminaries, teachers colleges and normal schools, it was reported, remained about the same as last year.

The Press

The Press Department of the Conference reported that the Catholic newspaper press circulation in the United States has increased from 1.-602,369 in 1925 to 2,631,807 in 1938, a gain of more than 60 per cent in 13 years. These figures indicate that one Catholic paper is being circulated for every 1.98 Catholic families in the country. Three new diocesan newspapers and four magazines were founded during the year, and none discontinued publication. It was reported that the National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service is now serving publications in 23 countries, besides Alaska and Hawaii.

Social Action

The Social Action Department of the Conference reported the establishment of Social Action Committees of priests in every diocese, the holding of local sessions of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems and the calling of Diocesan Social Action Conferences. This program was an outgrowth of the National Catholic Social Action Conference held in Milwaukee in May, considered the greatest meeting on Catholic Social teaching that has ever been held in the United States. Four regional meetings of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems were held, and schools of Social Action for the Clergy and an Institute on Industry were organized.

The Rural Life Bureau of the Department reported that there are now 66 directors of Diocesan Rural Life Bureaus. The Family Life Section reported continuing efforts to counteract a rising tide of family destruction, and Catholic Action programs for seminaries, colleges, universities and Newman Clubs.

Lay Organizations

The Department of Lay Organizations of the Conference, composed of the National Council of Catholic Men and the National Council of Catholic Women, reported expanding activities. There are now 1,216 organizations affiliated with the National Council of Catholic Men. The Catholic Hour, a radio program sponsored by the Council, "soared to new heights both in coverage and listener interests". The number of cooperating stations during the month of May was 75 in 40 States, the District of Columbia, and Hawaii, and included two globe-circling short-wave stations. Since the inception of the Hour a total of 828.-500 pamphlets containing 3,761,200 of these radio addresses have been distributed. The National Council of Catholic Women reported that diocesan councils have been organized in 60 dioceses. There are 2,750 local organizations affiliated with the N. C. C. W., an increase of 150 over 1937. There are 42 dioceses in which the Council has not vet been organized. There are 17 national Catholic organizations affiliated with the Council. Fifty-five students were enrolled during the year in the National Catholic School of Social Service. The National Committee on Youth of the Council sponsored a series of broadcasts over a national network. The Council also participated in international affairs of interest to women through membership in the International Union of Catholic Women's Leagues.

Legislation

The Legal Department of the Conference reported on two important projects which will come before the present Congress: the report of the President's Advisory Committee on Education suggesting vastly increased federal appropriations for education through grants in aid to the States, and the report of the Interdepartmental Committee to Coordinate Health and Welfare Activities, "These Proposals," the report of the De-"affect Catholic partment states, interests in the fields of education and charity." Legislatures of Kansas, New Hampshire and Rhode Island enacted laws providing for the transportation of private and parochial school children. In New York a constitutional amendment providing for such transportation and for public health service in Catholic schools was adopted by the electorate.

Statistics

Contributions to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith increased over the previous year, and the Catholic Church Extension Society reported the building or repairing of 75 mission chapels and parish buildings. The Catholic population of the country was placed at 21,451,460. The creation of the new Diocese of Lansing, Mich., brought the number of Sees in continental United States up to 112, of which 19 are Archdioceses and 93 Dioceses. A total of 2,542,500 students were enrolled in 10,310 Catholic schools in the United States in September, 1938. There were 39,-825 teachers in the Catholic school system. The number of elementary school pupils was put at 2,075,000 in 7,929 separate elementary institutions. The 1.984 Catholic high schools were estimated to have a total enrollment of some 30,000. Twenty-three universities, 56 colleges and 105 colleges for women under Catholic control were attended by 140,-000 students. Some 10,500 students were enrolled in 41 diocesan teachers colleges and normal schools, while there were 8,000 students in 93 major seminaries, and 9,000 in preparatory seminaries.

The Hierarchy

In addition to Cardinal Hayes, three other members of the American Hierarchy died in 1938. Bishop Thomas J. O'Reilly of Scranton died on March 25; Bishop Joseph J. Rice of Burlington, Vt., on March 31; and Bishop Thomas F. Lillis of Kansas City, Mo., died on December 29.

Bishops Francis J. Tief of Concordia and Timothy Corbett of Crookston, Minn., resigned their Sees because of ill health.

Archbishops John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles, John A. Floersh of Louisville and Thomas J. Walsh of Newark received the Pallium of 1938. Bishop Stephen J. Donahue, Auxiliary to Cardinal Hayes, was named Administrator of the Archdiocese of New York following the Cardinal's death. Bishop Eugene J. McGuinness, who had been consecrated toward the close of 1937, was installed as Bishop of Raleigh, and Bishop Thomas H. Mc-Laughlin, Auxiliary Bishop of Newark, was installed as the first Bishop of Paterson, Bishops Francis R. Cotton of Owensboro, Ky., William F. Murphy of Saginaw, Bartholomew J. Eustace of Camden, Matthew F. Brady of Burlington, Frank A. Thill of Concordia, Kans., John H. Peschges of Crookston, Minn., Stephen J. Woznicki, Auxiliary Bishop of Detroit, and William A. Griffin, Auxiliary Bishop of Newark, were consecrated during 1938.

During the year Pope Pius XI delivered more than 12 discourses against the persecution of Jews, racism and exaggerated nationalism, declaring these things to be "a real malediction," The Pontiff also rebuked those who sought to injure Catholic Action. declaring that Catholic Action is Catholic life and that it has no political aims or content. When world war seemed imminent in September, the Pontiff addressed a message to the world, asking all to join him in prayers for peace and offering his life to that end. The Bishops of the United States and prominent Catholic priests and laymen also frequently denounced persecution of Jews and Christians and warned against subversive propaganda. The serious illness of Pope Pius XI, who was stricken again in November but recovered with amazing rapidity, evoked profound repercussions throughout the world.

Eucharistic Congresses

The International Eucharistic Congress at Budapest, Hungary, was a magnificent demonstration of religious fervor, drawing many thousands of pilgrims from all over the world. Other great demonstrations of faith in the form of Eucharistic congresses took place in Canada, France, India, Australia, New Zealand and elsewhere.

THE JEWISH FIELD

Jewish Communal Life

Unity in community organization, the inroads of secularization, the role of religion in the formulation of an adequate program of social justice, the importance of the reestablishment of the synagogue to its former preeminent position in the general affairs of the community, and the indispensability of Judaism as a religion in preserving the Jewish group—these were the more important subjects stressed in the activities of the Jewish religious bodies during the year 1937 and 1938. This reemphasis on the religious, as opposed to secular forces, became the predominant theme in the discussions at the conventions of the religious organizations of Judaism during 1939. In fact, 1938 may be characterized in the religious field by its oft-repeated plea for the "primacy of the synagogue."

To a great extent, the religious thought of the Jewish community is expressed in the pronouncements of the congregational and rabbinical organizations of the three so-called "wings" of Judaism in Americathe Orthodox, the Conservative, and the Reform. At their meetings during 1937, these organizations discussed the situations confronting Jews in various countries, questions of congregational policy, ritual and Jewish law, and the attitude of religion reform programs. Among the most notable of the actions taken or resolutions adopted were: (1) the endorsement of the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America (Conservative) of "the general spirit of the New Deal" and legislation for complete neutrality of the United States in the event of war: (2) the declaration of the Women's League of the United Synagogue of America (Conservative) that the great need of the Jewish community of America was a well defined program of Jewish education and that the problem was peculiarly that of Jewish women; (3) the statement at the convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (Reform) that improvements in the service of the synagogue, especially in the matter of homiletics, were urgently needed; (4) the adoption by the Central Conference of American Rabbis (Reform) of a program for marriage reform, including uniform marriage laws in all states, and the suggestion at the meeting of the Conference that an appeal be made to Catholics and Protestants to join with Jews in a cooperative alliance of religious forces in the struggle to save democracy.

The United Synagogue of America held its silver jubilee convention in Chicago on May 6-10, 1938. The convention was addressed by Louis J. Moss, its president, who advocated making religion a daily part of the life of the ordinary person; Dean Charles W. Gilkey of Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, University of Chicago, who declared that the "will of God" was the "only final loyalty" that can save our life from futility and failure: and Rabbi Solomon Goldman, who deplored the secularization of American Jewry and declared the synagogue was of prime importance in furnishing leaders for Jewish secular institutions. Resolutions were adopted calling upon the great religions of the world to unite in combatting the growth of secularism and the anti-religious attitude and in maintaining "the spiritual and divine basis of human life"; reaffirming its determination "to stand for and spread the great traditional methods" of Judaism; and calling upon all "men of good will" to oppose the persecution of the Jews.

The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations held its fortieth annual convention in New York City on May 14, 1938. During it, Mr. William Weiss, announced that the Union had formulated a million-dollar program for Jewish education in America, coordinating religious education under the auspices of the National Orthodox Board of Education. The fund is to be raised in one-dollar gifts, and will provide for the support of the Yeshiva College of New York, the Chicago Theological Seminary, and other schools of higher Jewish learning, as well as for religious schools and Talmud Torahs attended by children. He announced also that a special $25,000 project would provide a subsidy of $500 to each of 50 rural communities throughout the country to help defray the cost of maintaining Hebrew school teachers in districts in which Jewish groups are too small to maintain such teachers unaided.

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations, at a meeting of its Executive Board in Atlantic City on June 19, 1938, approved the organization of a national committee on public information on Jews and Judaism to bring about widespread distribution among non-Jews of popular studies in Judaism.

The Central Conference of American Rabbis held its 49th annual meeting in Atlantic City on June 21, 1938. Among the chief topics discussed were the growing movement for unity and ways for making the synagogue a vital factor in Jewish secular life. In his presidential address, Rabbi Max C. Currick, of Erie, Paurged the uniting of Reform, Orthodox and Conservative Jews in a strengthened Synagogue Council, and recommended that local synagogue councils be organized in every community to stimulate and direct Jewish religious life. In several addresses on the place and work of the synagogue, Rabbi Samuel Wohl of Cincinnati advocated establishment of "preaching missions"—teams of two or three rabbis to visit communities and preach Jewish religious values: Rev. David Lefkowitz of Dallas urged a union of the various groups in the synagogue against their common enemy, secularism and materialism. The Conference also adopted resolutions relating to social justice, family welfare, and refugees.

The Rabbinical Assembly of America, at its 38th annual convention in Tannersville, N. Y. on June 27, 1938. advocated the inclusion of representatives of organized religious life in the newly organized General Jewish Council (consisting of the American Jewish Committee, American Jewish Congress, B'nai B'rith, and Jewish Labor Committee). Suggestions were also made for expanding the educational work of the synagogue and the educational functions of the Jewish Theological Seminary America. The Seminary was requested to extend its rabbinical course to a five year term, providing for an extra year for apprenticeship with an actual congregation.

Jewish Education

In the field of Jewish education the most important event in 1937 was the celebration of the semi-centennial of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, which began in December, 1936 and was concluded with the fiftieth annual convocation on June 6, 1937. The celebration took the form of educational programs which were participated in by distinguished publicists and scholars, including Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Presidents Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University and Henry Sloane Coffin of the Union Theological Seminary, and James Bryant Conant of Harvard University. The celebration also included a Conference on Jewish Affairs and Institutes of Bible Study and Post Biblical Literature.

The Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, the largest Orthodox Jewish theological school in the world, also celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1937.

Notable events in the field of Jewish education during 1938 included the enlargement of extension activities of the Jewish Theological Seminary aimed at spreading among the public a better knowledge of the results of recent scholarly research; the extension of Jewish educational facilities to Jewish students in college campuses through the opening of a unit of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations at the University of Indiana; the establishment of a Jewish Culture Foundation at New York University; and the publication of a number of notable books in the fields of Jewish scholarship and of modern Jewish problems.

At the Annual Meeting of the Jewish Education Association on May 8, Harry J. Liebovitz, president, announced an increase in registration during the preceding year by about one thousand pupils. It was also announced that $2,000,000 were spent annually by New York parents for the Jewish education of their children, and that the Association was doing everything possible to improve the standards of teaching in the schools.

In September, the American Jewish Committee issued the first number of a bi-monthly publication, the CONTEMPORARY JEWISH RECORD, intended to be a repository for documents, reviews, and chronicles on contemporary affairs of interest to Jews.

Welfare Organizations

During the two-year period under review the larger social welfare agencies of the Jewish community were extremely active.

On January 11, 1937, the National Council of Jewish Women marked its 44th anniversary. The Council announced the undertaking of an enlarged naturalization and Americanization program aimed particularly at integrating recent arrivals (German refugees with American life).

The results of an unusually interesting project in statistical research, pursued under the auspices of the B'nai B'rith, were made public in the spring of 1937. Under the direction of Rabbi Lee J. Levinger, the first complete survey of the number and scholastic activities of Jewish students in the colleges and universities of the United States had been undertaken. A total of 1,319 institutions, 90% of the total, were covered by the inquiry. It disclosed that of an aggregate registration in 1935-36, of 1,150,000 students, 105,000 9.1% were Jews.

The work of the Jewish Welfare

Board in war and peace, in promoting forces making for unity and harmony among American Jews was described, on April 25, 1937, at the twentieth anniversary meeting of the organization, in New York City. The conferences were attended by delegates from 317 Y. M. H. A.'s, Y. W. H. A.'s and Jewish community centers, as well as members of directing boards, local chairmen, and committee members who participated in its activities during the War. Judge Irving Lehman, in his presidential report, revealed that the Jewish community centers own 233 buildings having an estimated value of $35,000,000 as compared with 138 buildings in 1928, and 70 in 1921. Membership in constituent societies is estimated at 370,000, as compared with 275,000 in 1928, and 100.000 in 1921. Some $4,600,000 is spent annually on operating the centers. At the annual meeting of its National Council on May 1, 1938, the Board adopted resolutions calling for additional funds from local fund-raising agencies, advocating group insurance and pension funds for employees of Y's and Centers, establishing vocational guidance and employment bureaus for their members and extending health education programs in connection with physical education. Dr. Cyrus Adler, Chairman of the Army and Navy Committee, reported that $40,478 was spent by the Board during the year for religious work in the Army, Navy, and C. C. C. camps.

The Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, in a statement published in February, 1938, reported that during 1936, the Jews of America, through 125 Federations and Welfare Funds, had contributed $15,-169,803 for relief and reconstruction activities. Almost three-quarters of it went for local philanthropies, and a little less than 15% for activities outside the communities.

The National Council of Jewish Women held its 15th biennial convention in Pittsburgh, Pa. on January 23-28, 1938. The principal resolution adopted by the convention called for revision of the United States' neutrality policy through legislation imposing embargoes on belligerent nations that evade the present neutrality act by fighting "undeclared" wars. The convention adopted also a resolution pledging the Council's 200 sections throughout the country to raise $250,000 over a three-year period to finance the work of German Jewish Children's Aid committees.

Vocational problems and public relief policies were outstanding among the many questions discussed at the 39th annual meeting of the National Conference of Jewish Welfare, held in Washington, May 27-31, 1938, under the presidency of Harry Greenstein, executive director of the Associated Jewish Charities of Baltimore. In 1938 studies in the field of vocational adjustment and vocational guidance for Jewish youth were published by the newly organized B'nai B'rith Vocational Service, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (Commission of Jewish Education) and the Conference on Jewish Relations. A significant step in the direction of coordination of efforts in this field was the Conference on Vocational Adjustment Problems and Programs, which was held on May 13-14, 1938, in New York under the joint auspices of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds and the Conference on Jewish Relations.

Palestine Problems

Developments in and affecting Palestine during 1937 and 1938 were the subject of a great deal of serious concern and attention on the part of the Jewish community in the United States. Especially at a time when the intensity of anti-Jewish persecutions in Germany, Austria, and Eastern Europe reached a new height and the number of possible havens for refugees remained pitifully meagre. American Jews, as indeed Jews throughout the world, followed closely the trends of British policy vis-a-vis the Holy Land and were quick to protest any reported drastic modification of policy adversely affecting Jewish immigration. The American Jewish community also followed with considerable misgivings the continued Arab terrorism in Palestine.

The chief subject of debate and discussion with regard to the Holy Land was the British Government proposal for the tri-partition of the country, On July 8, 1937, the British Royal Commission published the longawaited report of its investigations in Palestine in which it recommended the partition of the Holy Land into a Jewish state, an Arab region to be joined to Transjordania, and a section to remain under British Mandate. This proposal was received with mixed feeling by American Jews, as by Jews everywhere. The issue was widely debated. The consensus of opinion appeared to be opposed to the partition plan. A poll conducted in the Spring of 1938 by the American Bureau of the London JEWISH CHRONICLE revealed that out of 172 religious and lay spokesman throughout the United States, 86 per cent favored the retention of the Mandate and opposed partition.

In January, 1938, the British Government appointed a technical commission to work out, in Palestine, the details of partition. The report of this commission, headed by Sir John Woodhead, was awaited with anxiety by Jews everywhere. In October. when the commission was formulating its report, there were insistent rumors that Britain was planning the abandonment of the Balfour Declaration. A wave of protest by Jews and Christians swept the western world. In the United States Jews of all opinions regarding the future of Palestine united in deploring such a step, which they regarded as especially tragic in the face of the crisis in Europe. A delegation representative of a complete cross-section of the Jewish community waited upon the Secretary of State and upon the British Ambassador in Washington, A large section of the American press voiced the hope that Britain would not surrender the Mandate for Palestine. Currently, American Jews, together with Jews throughout the world, are anxiously following the round-table conferences being held in London by the British with representatives of the Jews, the Arabs of Palestine, and the neighboring Arab countries.

In addition to the American reaction to the partition proposal and to the disturbances in Palestine, described above. Zionist organizations carried on their regular communal activities. Such organizations as the Zionist Organization of America, the Hadassah, women's Zionist group. and the Federation of Palestine Jews of America, were increasingly active during the period under review. In October, 1937, Hadassah marked the 25th anniversary of its founding at its 23rd annual convention in Atlantic City. This convention, attended by 2500 delegates, representing more than 300 chapters in 46 states, was said to be the largest gathering of Zionists ever held in the United States.

Aid for Overseas Communities

The growing concern of American Jews over the hardships of Jewish communities overseas was reflected during 1937 and 1938 not only in increased activity on the part of the overseas agencies but also by an increase in contributions to these agencies. The chief agency in this country for the relief and rehabilitation of Jews overseas is the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. Fundraising activities for Palestine projects are centered in the United Palestine Appeal.

In February, 1937, the J. D. C. decided upon a quota of $4,650,000 for the 1937 campaign, and the U. P. A. a quota of $4,500,000 for the same period. At the close of its campaign for the year the J. D. C. announced that $3,350,000 had been pledged and the largest part of that sum collected. Of this sum, $2,876,675 was allocated for overseas relief. In January, 1938, the U. P. A. announced that a total of $2,325,212 had been administered in 1937. In February, 1938, the J. D. C. and the U. P. A. concluded a fund-raising agreement applicable in all cities where Jewish community drives are conducted by welfare funds that hold membership in the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. The pact provided that moneys raised by such local welfare funds for overseas and Palestine activities should be allocated to the two organizations in the proportion of 60 per cent for the J. D. C. and 40 per cent for the U. P. A.

The 1938 fund-raising efforts of both the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Palestine Appeal were launched late in January, 1938. The J. D. C. set its national quota at $5,100,000. Both campaigns benefited by the growing realization on the part of Jews in this country of the greater needs abroad. The reaction to the events in Poland, Roumania, Austria. Germany, and Palestine raised the general standard of giving both in number and size of contribution to these funds. The annexation of Austria by Germany, resulting in the loss of civil, legal and economic rights for Austrian Jews, evoked grave concern in the Spring of 1938 among Jews in the United States. Prompt emergency aid was rendered by the J. D. C. It was revealed in May that the J. D. C. was making available about $1,000 a day for emergency assistance to Jews in Vienna.

General Jewish Council

The question of closer cooperation between, or greater coordination of the work of, the several organizations engaged largely or entirely in combating anti-Jewish agitation and safeguarding the civil and religious rights of Jews, was the focus of attention within the Jewish community during 1938. Following much public discussion, the four organizations most active in this field, the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress, B'nai B'rith, and the Jewish Labor Committee, organized a General Jewish Council.

Anti-Jewish Agitation

Following the presidential election campaign of 1936 there was a recession in anti-Jewish agitation. The vear 1938, however, has again witnessed a perceptible rise in such agitation, marked by the resumption by native Jew-baitors and Jew-baiting groups of their former activities, and the active propaganda of the German American Bund and the wide-spread opposition to it. These organizations were considerably emboldened by the new waves of anti-Jewish persecutions abroad and encouraged by the adverse economic conditions at home. To a great extent the agitation continued to have a political motive, much of its content being attacks upon the policies of the present administration on the pretense that it is in some way controlled by "the Jews."

American Jews were concerned during 1938 over utterances of Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, Michigan, in radio addresses as well as in his weekly publication SOCIAL JUSTICE, in which Jews were charged with responsibility for the Russian communist revolution and other unpopular movements. That Father Coughlin did not speak for the Catholic Church was made clear by authoritative declarations by Church dignitaries. Also, Father Coughlin's principal charges against Jews were refuted by various persons and agencies; a documented pamphlet refuting his accusations was published by the General Jewish Council.

Movements for Better Understanding

As in past years, the forces of illwill met with more than their match in the much more influential and reputable agencies working for the maintenance of inter-group harmony and understanding in the United States. During the past two years the most active agency of inter-group good will was again the National Conference of Christians and Jews Its efforts were amply supplemented by pronouncements and activities hosts of other organizations as well as by innumerable individual Americans. The Conference was active in promoting seminars and institutes for the discussion of better group relations between Protestants, Catholics, and Jews. The Conference also organized "round tables" of representatives of the three faiths in a number of cities, and good will "pilgrimages" of teams each consisting of a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest, and a rabbi, which made tours throughout the country. During 1938, the double celebration of Brotherhood Day and the tenth anniversary of the National Conference on February 22, was one of the most significant events of the year. The message of inter-faith cooperation disseminated on this occasion through the medium of local meetings, the press and the radio, penetrated into the remotest sections of the country.

At the semi-annual meeting, on May 30, 1938, the executive committee authorized Dr. Arthur H. Compton, who had been elected to succeed the late Newton D. Baker as Protestant co-chairman of the Conference, to proceed with a four-year nation-wide survey, beginning with the academic year 1938-1939, on the influence of a college education on the religious and racial attitudes of American students.

The years 1937 and 1938, especially the latter, were marked by an extraordinary number of good will declarations by Christian organizations and leaders, in addition to protests by Christian leaders and organizations against persecutions in certain European countries. Undoubtedly the most significant trend to be discerned in these statements was the realization that anti-Semitism is but a forerunner of anti-Christianity and that it behooves the churches of America firmly to oppose anti-Semitism and other forms of religious prejudice for the preservation of all religion.

DOCUMENTATION

PROPOSED WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

The following Constitution for a proposed World Council of Churches was unanimously adopted by a Provisional Conference held in Utrecht, Holland, May 9-13, 1938. It was approved by the Edinburgh Continuation Committee, August 30, 1938. It has been submitted to the Churches for ratification.

THE CONSTITUTION

- Art. 1. BASIS. The World Council of Churches is a fellowship of Churches which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour. It is constituted for the discharge of the functions set out below.
- Art. 2. MEMBERSHIP. All Churches shall be eligible for membership in the World Council which express agreement with the basis upon which the Council is founded. After the Council has been organized the application of Churches to become members shall be considered by the Assembly or its Central Committee as it may be advised by national or confessional associations of Churches.

Note: Under the word "Churches" are included such denominations as are composed of local autonomous Churches.

Art. 3. FUNCTIONS. The functions of the World Council shall be (1) to carry on the work of the two world movements, for Faith and Order and for Life and Work; (2) to facilitate common action by the Churches; (3) to promote cooperation in study; (4) to promote the growth of ecumenical consciousness in the members of all Churches; (5) to establish relations with denominational federations of world-wide scope and with other ecumenical movements; (6) to call world conferences on specific subjects as occasion may require, such conferences being empowered to publish their own findings.

Note: In matters of common interest to all the Churches and pertaining to Faith and Order, the Council shall always proceed in accordance with the basis on which the Lausanne (1927) and Edinburgh (1937) Conferences were called and conducted.

- Art. 4. AUTHORITY. The World Council shall offer counsel and provide opportunity of united action in matters of common interest. It may take action on behalf of constituent Churches in such matters as one or more of them may commit to it. It shall have authority to call regional and world conferences on specific subjects as occasion may require. The World Council shall not legislate for Churches: nor shall it act for them in any manner except as indicated above or as may hereafter be specified by the constituent Churches.
- Art. 5. ORGANIZATION. The World Council shall discharge its functions through the following bodies: (1) an ASSEMBLY which shall be the principal authority in the Council, and shall ordinarily meet every five years. The Assembly shall be composed of official representatives of the Churches or groups of Churches adhering to it. It shall consist of Churches adhering to it and directly appointed by them. It shall consist of not more than 450 members who shall be apportioned as provided hereafter. They shall serve for five years, their term of service beginning in the year before the Assembly meets. The membership shall be allocated provisionally as follows: 85, representing the Orthodox Churches throughout the world, allocated in such manner as they may decide; 110, representing the Churches of the continent of Europe, allocated in such manner as they may decide; 60, representing the Churches of Great Britain and Eire, allocated in such manner as they may decide: 90. representing Churches of the United States of America and Canada, allocated in such manner as they may decide; 50, representing the Churches of Asia, Africa, Latin America, and the Pacific Islands, to be appointed by them as they may decide; 25, representing the Churches of South Africa, Australasia, and areas not otherwise represented, to be appointed by them, such places to be allocated by the Central Committee: and not more than 30 members representing minority Churches, which in the judgment of the Central Committee are not granted adequate representation by the above provisions of this section, such Churches to be designated by the world confessional organizations. The Assembly shall have power to appoint officers of the World Council and of the Assembly at its discretion. The members of the Assembly shall be both clerical and lay persons ---men and women. In order to secure that approximately one third of the Assembly shall consist of lay persons, the Central Committee, in consultation with the different areas and groups. shall suggest plans to achieve this end. (2) A CENTRAL COMMITTEE which shall consist of not more than 90 members designated by the Churches, or groups of Churches, from persons whom among these Churches have elected as members of the Assembly. They shall serve from the beginning of the Assembly meeting until next Assembly, unless the Assembly otherwise determine. Any vacancy occurring in the membership of the Committee shall be filled by the Church or group of Churches concerned. This Committee shall be a Committee of the Assembly. The Assembly shall have authority to modify the allocation of members of the Central Committee as herein provided, both as to the manner and as to the ratio of the allocation. The membership shall be allocated provisionally as follows: 17, of whom at least 3 shall be lay persons, representing the Orthodox Churches throughout the world, allocated in such manner as they may decide; 22, of whom at least 5 shall be lay persons. representing the Churches of the continent of Europe, allocated in such manner as they may decide; 12, of whom at least 4 shall be lay persons, representing the Churches of Great Britain and Eire, allocated in such manner as they may decide: 18, of whom at least 5 shall be lay persons, representing Churches of the United States of America and Canada. allocated in such manner as they may decide; 10, of whom at least 2 shall be lay persons, representing the Churches of Asia. Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, to be appointed by them as they may decide: 5. of whom at least 2 shall be lav persons. representing the Churches of South Africa, Australasia and areas not otherwise represented, to be appointed by them, such places to be allocated by the Central Committee; and, not more than 6 members representing minority Churches, which in the judgment of the Central committee are not granted adequate representation by the above provisions of this section, such Churches to be designated by the world confessional organizations. The Central Committee shall have the following powers: (a) it shall, between meetings of the Assembly, carry out the Assembly's instructions and exercise its functions, except that of amending the Constitution, or modifying the allocation of its own members: (b) it shall be the finance committee of the Assembly, formulating its budget and securing its financial support: (c) it shall name and elect its own officers from among its members and appoint its own secretarial staff: (d) the Central Committee shall meet normally once every calendar year, and shall have power to appoint its own Executive Committee, Quorum: No business, except what is required for carrying forward the current activities of the Council. shall be transacted in either the Assembly or the Central Committee, unless one half of the total membership is present.

Art. 6. APPOINTMENT OF COM-MISSIONS. The World Council shall discharge part of its functions by the appointment Commissions. These shall established under the authority of the Assembly, whether they be actually nominated by the Assembly or by the Central Committee acting under its instructions. The Commissions shall, between meetings of the Assembly, report annually to the Central Committee which shall exercise general supervision over them. The Commissions may add to their membership clerical and lay persons approved for the purpose by the Central Committee. In particular the Assembly shall make provision by means of appropriate Commissions for carrying the activities of Faith and Order and of Life and Work. There shall be a Faith and Order Commission which shall conform to the requirements of the Second World Conference on Faith and Order, held at Edinburgh in 1937.

Note: The requirements of the Second World Conference on Faith and Order, held at Edinburgh, in 1937. referred to above, are the following: (a) that the World Council's Commission on Faith and Order shall, in the first instance, be the Continuation Committee appointed by this Conference; (b) in any further appointments made by the Council to membership of the Commission on Faith and Order, the persons appointed shall always be members of the Churches which fall within the terms of the Faith and Order invitation as addressed to "all Christian bodies throughout the world which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour"; (c) the work of the Commission on Faith and Order shall be carried on under the general care of a Theological Secretariat appointed by the Commission, in consultation with the Council and acting in close cooperation with other secretariats of the Council. The Council shall make adequate financial provision for the work of the Commission after consultation with the Commission; (d) in matters of common interest to all the Churches and pertaining to Faith and Order, the Council shall always proceed in accordance with the basis on which this Conference on Faith and Order was called and is being conducted: (e) the World Council shall consist of official representatives of the Churches participating; (f) any Council formed before the first meeting of the Ceneral Assembly shall be called Provisional, and the Assembly, representing all the Churches, shall have complete freedom to determine the constitution of the Central Council.

- Art. 7. OTHER ECUMENICAL CHRISTIAN ORGANIZATIONS. World confessional associations and such Ecumenical Organizations as may be designated by the Central Committee may be invited to send representatives to the sessions of the Assembly and of the Central Committee in a consultative capacity, in such numbers as the Central Committee shall determine.
- Art. 8. AMENDMENTS. The Constitution may be amended by a two-third majority vote of the Assembly, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been reviewed by the Central Committee, and notice of it sent to the constituent Churches not less than six months before the meeting of the Assembly. The Central Committee itself, as well as the individual Churches, shall have the right to propose such amendment.

no ultimate authority but God; his loyalty to the State is part of his loyalty to God, and must never usurp the place of that primary and only absolute loyalty.

The Church has duties laid upon it by God, which at all costs it must perform, among which the chief is to proclaim the Word of God and to make disciples, and to order its own life in the power of the Spirit dwelling in it. Because this is its duty it must do it, whether or not the State consents; and the State on its side should recognize the duty and assure full liberty for its performance. The Church can claim such liberty for itself only as it is also concerned for the rights and liberties of others.

In the economic sphere the first duty of the Church is to insist that economic activities, like very other department of human life, stand under the judgment of Christ. The existence of economic classes presents a barrier to human fellowship which cannot be tolerated by the Christian conscience. Indefensible inequalities of opportunity in regard to education, leisure, and health continue to prevail. The ordering of economic life has tended to enhance acquisitiveness and to set up a false standard of economic and social success. The only forms of employment open to many men and women, or the fact that none is open, prevent them from finding a sense of Christian vocation in their daily life.

We are witnessing new movements which have arisen in reaction to these evils but which combine with their struggle for social justice the repudiation of all religious faith. Aware of the reality of sin, the Church knows that no change in the outward ordering of life can of itself eradicate social evil. The Church therefore cannot surrender to the Utopian expectations of these movements and their Godlessness it must unequivocally reject; but in doing so it must recognize that Christians in their blindness to the challenging evils of the economic order have been partly responsible for the anti-religious character of these movements.

Christians have a double dutyboth to bear witness to their faith within the existing economic order and also to test all economic institutions in the light of their understanding of God's will. The forces of evil against which Christians have to contend are found not only in the hearts of men as individuals, but have entered into and affected the structure of society, and there also must be combatted. The responsibility of the Church is to insist on the true relationship of spiritual and economic goods. Man cannot live without bread, and man cannot live by bread alone. Our human wealth consists in fellowship with God and in Him with our brethren. To this fellowship the whole economic order must be made subservient.

The questions which have mainly engaged the attention of the Conference are questions that can be effectively dealt with, in practice, only by the laity. Those who are responsible for the daily conduct of industry, administration, and public life must discover for themselves what is the right decision in an endless variety of concrete situations. If they are to receive the help they need in making responsible Christian decisions new types of ministry will have to be developed by the Church.

The fulfilment of the tasks to which the Church is called today lies largely in the hands of youth. Many loud voices are calling on young people to give themselves to political and social ideals, and it is often hard for them to hear the voice of Jesus Christ who calls them to be servants of the eternal Kingdom. Yet many of the younger generation, often in spite of ridicule and sometimes of persecution, are turning to Him, and individually as well as in Christian youth movements devote themselves to the renewal of the life of the Churches and to making known the Good News of Christ by word and action. We rejoice in their brave witness.

In the education of youth the Church has a twofold task. First, it must be eager to secure for every citizen the fullest possible opportunity for the development of the gifts that God has bestowed upon him. In particular, the Church must condemn inequality of educational opportunity as a main obstacle to fullness of fellowship in the life of the community.

While the Church is thus concerned with all education it has, also, a special responsibility to realize its own understanding of the meaning and end of education in the relation of life to God. In education, as elsewhere, if God is not recognized, He is ignored. The Church must claim the liberty to give a Christian education to its own children. It is in the field of education that the conflict between Christian faith and non-

Christian conceptions of the ends of life, between the Church and an allembracing community life which claims to be the source and goal of every human activity, is in many parts of the world most acute. In this conflict all is at stake, and the Church must gird itself for the struggle.

As we look to the future it is our hope and prayer that the Spirit of God may cause new life to break forth spontaneously in a multitude of different centres, and that there may come into being a large number of "cells" of Christian men and women associated in small groups for the discovery of fresh ways in which they may serve God and their fellow-men.

We have deeply felt the absence from our fellowship of the Churches that have not been represented at the Conference. Our hearts are filled with anguish as we remember the suffering of the Church in Russia. Our sympathy and gratitude go cut to our Christian brethren in Germany; we are moved to a more living trust by their steadfast witness to Christ and we pray that we may be given grace to bear the same clear witness to the Lord

We have much to encourage us since the Conference at Stockholm twelve years ago. The sense of the unity of the Church in all the world grows stronger every year. We trust that this cause will be yet more fully served by the World Council of Churches, proposals for which have been considered by the Conference and commended to the Churches.

We have tried during these days at Oxford to look without illusion at the chaos and disintegration of the world, the injustices of the social order and the menace and horror of war. The world is anxious and bewildered and full of pain and fear. We are troubled yet we do not despair. Our hope is anchored in the living God. In Christ, and in the union of man with God and of man with man, which He creates, life even in the face of all these evils has a meaning. In His Name we set our hands, as the servants of God and in Him of one another, to the task of proclaiming God's message of redemption, of living as His children, and of combating injustice, cruelty, and hate. The Church can be of good cheer; it hears its Lord saying, "I have overcome the world."

AFFIRMATION FROM THE EDINBURGH CONFERENCE

(August, 1937)

This Conference, under the auspices of the World Conference of Faith and Order, met at Edinburgh, Scotland, in the summer of 1937. Delegates from one hundred and twenty-two Christian communions in forty-three countries were present. The four hundred and fourteen delegates united on the following AFFIR-MATION OF UNITY, nemine contradicente:

"We are one in faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, the incarnate Word of God. We are one in allegiance to Him as Head of the Church, and as King of Kings and Lord of Lords. We are one in acknowledging that this allegiance takes precedence of any other allegiance that may make claims upon us.

This unity does not consist in the agreement of our minds or the consent of our wills. It is founded in Jesus Christ Himself, Who lived, died and rose again to bring us to the Father, and Who through the Holy Spirit dwells in His Church. We are one because we are all the objects of the love and grace of God, and called by Him to witness in all the world to His glorious gospel.

Our unity is of heart and spirit. We are divided in the outward forms of our life in Christ, because we understand differently His will for His Church. We believe however that a deeper understanding will lead us towards a united apprehension of the truth as it is in Jesus.

We humbly acknowledge that our divisions are contrary to the will of Christ, and we pray God in His mercy to shorten the days of our separation and to guide us by His Spirit into fulness of unity.

We are thankful that during recent years we have been drawn together; prejudices have been overcome, misunderstandings removed, and real, if limited, progress has been made towards our goal of a common mind.

In this Conference we may gratefully claim that the Spirit of God has made us willing to learn from one another, and has given us a fuller vision of the truth and enriched our spiritual experience.

We have lifted up our hearts together in prayer; we have sung the same hymns; together we have read the same Holy Scriptures. We recognize in one another, across the barriers of our separation, a common Christian outlook and a common standard of values. We are therefore assured of a unity deeper than our divisions.

We are convinced that our unity of spirit and aim must be embodied in a way that will make it manifest to the world, though we do not yet clearly see what outward form it should take.

We believe that every sincere attempt to co-operate in the concerns of the Kingdom of God draws the severed communions together in increased mutual understanding and good will. We call upon our fellow-Christians of all communions to practice such co-operation; to consider patiently occasions of disunion that they may be overcome; to be ready to learn from those who differ from them; to seek to remove those obstacles to the furtherance of the gospel in the non-Christian world which arise from our divisions; and constantly to pray for that unity which we believe to be our Lord's will for His Church

We desire also to declare to all men everywhere our assurance that Christ is the one hope of unity for the world in face of the distractions and dissensions of this present time. We know that our witness is weakened by our divisions. Yet we are one in Christ and in the fellowship of His Spirit. We pray that everywhere, in a world divided and perplexed, men may turn to Jesus Christ our Lord. Who makes us one in spite of our divisions; that He may bind in one those who by many worldly claims are set at variance; and that the world may at last find peace and unity in Him; to Whom be glory forever."

PROPOSED CONCORDAT BETWEEN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, U. S. A., AND THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Original Action

The General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, meeting in Cincinnati, O., October, 1937, adopted the following declaration:

"The two Churches, one in the faith of the Lord Jesus, the Incarnate Word of God, recognizing the Holy Scriptures as the supreme rule of faith, accepting the two Sacraments ordained by Christ, and believing that the visible unity of Christ's Church is the will of God, hereby solemnly declare their purpose to achieve organic union."

The Presbyterian General Assembly, meeting at Philadelphia, Pa., on June 1, 1938, received and adopted the same declaration.

The Concordat

The following agreement has been proposed by the representatives of the two religious bodies concerned, to be submitted for discussion and action at the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1939 and the Protestant Episcopal Convention in 1940:

"The immediate purpose of this agreement is to provide means whereby each Church may wherever it seems locally desirable assume pastoral charge of the members of the other Church and offer them the privilege of the holy communion, thus establishing one congregation.

The primary difficulty lies in the differing views of the ministry. But there is large agreement. Both Churches believe the ministry is part of God's will for His Church. Both believe that in ordination the Church is acting for God, and that it is He who ordains. Both believe that the succession of the ministry is a continuing visible sign of the continuous life of the Church, and that the laying on of hands is the Apostolic method of continuing that succession. Both believe in episcopal ordination, the one by a bishop, the other by a presbytery acting in an episcopal capacity.

Finally, both Churches believe that all practice in regard to the ministry should look forward to one which may have universal acceptance; and both recognize that a truly reunited Church would be something greater than either and inclusive of both.

The position of the two Churches has not, however, been the same as regards the recognition of each other's ministries. The ordination of ministers* in the Protestant Episcopal Church has been accepted by the Presbyterian. On the other hand, ministers of the latter Church entering the ministry of the former have been required to accept reordination. In view of the expressed purpose of organic unity, each Church recognizes the spiritual efficacy of the other's ministry of the Word and Sacraments. And to assure the full acceptance of the following plan and noting the distinction between canonical or legal validity and spiritual efficacy, whenever and wherever under the proper ecclesiastical authorities a minister may be commissioned to serve the members of the other Church and to minister to them the Sacraments, the essential act of this commissioning shall be as follows:

In the case of a minister of the Presbyterian Church, the bishop of the diocese concerned, when satisfied as to the qualifications of the candidate, shall lay his hands on his head and say: "Take thou authority to execute the office of a presbyter in this Church now committed to thee by the imposition of our hands. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

In the case of a minister of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the moderator of the presbytery concerned shall proceed in the same manner and use the same sentence.

In the ensuing service of institution or installation, both Churches shall be represented.

All baptized members of either Church who have been confirmed or have made profession of their faith shall be eligible to receive the holy communion wherever this arrangement has been entered into.

When the minister of one Church has been commissioned in the other, he shall continue to be amenable to discipline in his own Church: but he shall be expected to report regularly to the bishop or presbytery, as the case may be, concerning the other's communicants committed to his charge: and in case of failure to exercise proper pastoral care or other delinquency, the authority of either Church may present the matter to the body having jurisdiction and may in its discretion terminate this relationship. And, furthermore, this commissioning to serve in other than his own Church carries with it permission to do so only in the diocese or presbytery first concerned; and specific permission for the exercise of such commissioning must be given by the proper authority upon removal into another diocese or presbytery as the case may be.

Whenever an arrangement of this kind shall be entered into between a diocese and presbytery, any ministers so commissioned shall have seats, but not votes, in the presbytery or convention of the other Church; and also, it shall be the privilege of the bishop or some minister appointed by him to sit with the presbytery, and the moderator or some minister appointed by him, to sit in the convention of the diocese under the same conditions.

All these arrangements are regarded as ad interim and the two parties to this concordat hereby agree that conferences and negotiations shall continue until organic unity is achieved, reports being made regularly to the governing bodies of the two Churches."

A MESSAGE TO ALL PEOPLE

(The following Message was issued by the delegates to the Missionary Conference, held at Madras, India, in December, 1938).

The International Missionary Council, meeting at Tambaram in India, sends greetings to the peoples of all lands

We are 470 delegates gathered from 70 nations and from many races of the earth to consider how we may better make known to the world the love of the eternal God as He has revealed Himself in Jesus Christ.

The reports that have been brought to us from every quarter of the globe have made us realize that the ancient pestilences which destroy mankind are abroad with a virulence unparalleled. In every country the fact of war or the fear of it, casts its paralyzing shadow over human hope. Race hatred, the ugly parent of persecution, has been set up as a national idol in many a market place and increasingly becomes a household god. Everywhere the greed of money continues to separate those who have from those who have not, filling the latter with angry plans of revolution and the former with the nervousness of power.

Again and again a sense of penitence has come over us as we have realized that these consuming evils are all of them man-made. They bear upon them the marks of human manufacture as clearly as the motor car or the aeroplane. Neither flood nor earthquake nor dark mysterious force outside of our control produces wars or economic tensions. We know that we live involved within a chaos which we ourselves have made.

Again and again we have been forced to note that the evils that we face are not the work of bad men only but of good as well. The gravest of our disasters have been brought upon us not by men desiring to make trouble for mankind but by those who thought they did their best in the circumstances surrounding them. We do not know the man wise enough to have saved the world from its present sufferings—and we do not know the man wise enough to deliver us now.

But it is just at this point that we are forced back upon our faith and rescued from pessimism to a glorious hope. We know that there is One who, unlike ourselves, is not defeated and who cannot know defeat. In the wonder of Christ's revelation we see God not as a remote and careless deity sufficient unto Himself, but as a Father with a love for mankind, His children, as indescribable as it is fathomless. We who have looked at Christ, His Messenger, His Son, torn with suffering on a cross on which only His love for man placed Him, have a tragic but transfiguring insight into the richness and reality of God's passion for His own. It is this insight which has taken the Christians to glad martyrdoms through the centuries and sent them to the ends of the earth to spread the great Good News. And in humility we record our gratitude that even in this present time evidences multiply that men and women still go forth as faithful and untiring ambassadors of Christ.

It is clear that only God can save the peoples, and that the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ not only can but will. It must become clearer to us all, however, that the instruments He demands are not men and women of ideals as such, but those who constantly in prayer and worship verify those same ideals before His august will-verify and improve and never cease to re-verify them. It is not the merely moral person whom God requires in the present crisis, or in any other, but the person who keeps his morality alive and growing through the constant refreshing of His creative touch. We can, none of us, become faultless agents of His grace, but the only hope before the world lies in those who at least attempt to know Him and to follow in His way.

National gods of any kind, gods of race or class, these are not large enough to save us. The recognition of God in Christ by no means robs a man of his nation or his family or his culture. When Christ is taken seriously by a nation or an ancient culture, He destroys no whit of good within it, but lifts it rather to its own highest destiny. He does destroy exclusiveness, but in its place He causes a new quality to grow-good willa good will which is wider than national or cultural loyalties and corresponds to the largeness of God's love.

In our midst we have seen anew that devotion to the things of Christ which will work a miracle among men and women. We have prayed, and as we prayed, the barrier of nationality and class have melted. Knit by the Holy Spirit the one to the other and all to God, we have known the meaning of fellowship. We feel this to be a promise of what may be in all the earth.

We call upon our fellow Christians throughout the world to join us in a new dedication. Surely God is summoning us in these times to let go our self-sufficiency, to frequent His altars, to learn of Him, and to make His ways known in all the relationships of life. To make Him known in the state involves labor for the establishment of justice among all the people. In the world of commerce it involves the ending of unregulated competition for private gain and the beginning of emulation for the public good. God grant to His Church to take the story of His love to all mankind, till that love surround the earth, binding the nations, the races and the classes into a community of sympathy for one another, undergirded by a deathless faith in Christ.

APPEAL OF POPE PIUS XII FOR PEACE

(On March 3, 1939, the newly-elected Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, issued the following address, a noble appeal for peace).

As most profound emotion fills our spirit and we feel ourselves as though overwhelmed before the tremendous responsibility to which Divine Providence in its inscrutable designs has called us, we feel it necessary to make known our thoughts immediately to all. Thus these paternal words.

First of all, with particular affection, we give our paternal embrace to the very beloved Cardinals of the Sacred College whose piety, virtue and eminent gifts of mind we know by long association; then we salute with special benevolence our venerable brothers of the episcopate; at the same time we bless the priests and nuns, those who work to spread the Kingdom of Christ through missions or who collaborate with the apostolic hierarchy under the guidance of Bishops in the field of Catholic Action and, finally, all our sons throughout the world, especially those who suffer poverty and pain.

May very special graces of heaven descend copiously on each and every one of these.

But in this solemn moment our thoughts run also to all those who are outside the church, to those who will be pleased to know that the Pope raises for them to the highest and greatest God prayers and wishes for every good.

To this paternal message we wish to add hope and appeal for peace.

We mean that peace which our predecessor of pious memory recommended to men with so much insistence and invoked with such ardent prayers and for which he offered his life to God; that peace, sublime gift of Heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice. We invite everybody to peace of conscience, tranquil in the friendship of God; to peace of families, united and harmonized by holy love of Christ; and, finally, to peace among nations through mutual, brotherly assistance, friendly collaboration and cordial understandings for the superior interests of the great human family under the watchfulness and protection of Divine Providence.

In these troublesome and difficult hours, while so many difficulties seem to impede attainment of that peace which is the most profound inspiration of hearts, we raise to the Lord a special prayer for all those who are entrusted with the high honor and the grave burden of guiding peoples on the road to prosperity and progress.

Here then, O beloved Cardinals, here, venerable brothers, here, beloved sons, is the first wish which rises from the paternal beat which

God has inspired in our heart. Before us we have the spectacle of immense evils which scourge the world and for which blessed God sends us as succor, unarmed but believing. You sons, you brothers, would not desire—we are fully confident of it—to render our hope vain. After the grace of God it is on your good-will that our soul depends so much.

May the Lord Christ, of whose fullness we all have received, deign to make fruitful this hope of ours and extend it as messenger of holy consolation to the entire earth and may the benediction which we impart in His name give virtue to it.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY

Organized 1825

The century-old, missionary agency of the churches, highly approved by denominations, Christian workers, and U. S. officials.

IT SPECIALIZES

In the publication and distribution of choice, evangelical literature in many languages.

In its faith-building and soul-saving tracts for the unfortunate and segregated classes. Extensively used by the churches. In freely granting large quantities of literature annually for missionary purposes, where most needed.

purposes, where most needed.

In colporteur service presenting the Gospel to thousands of the unchurched and religiously indifferent in city and rural districts.

In the neglected and all-important service to the foreign-speaking people; maintaining a Welfare Library of 10,000 volumes at Ellis Island, and effectively combatting atheism and communism among immigrants.

In high-grade annuities paying up to 8% and never defaulted. A guaranteed life income, a safe and sound investment, a gift wisely bestowed.

Will You Help

by a personal donation, by a contribution from your church, by a bequest in your will, or by purchase of annuity bonds?

Send for the Annuity booklets and for the tract and book catalogs.

GIVING'S Place Today

THE HORIZONS OF STEWARDSHIP

By HERMAN C. WEBER

President, United Stewardship Council, U. S. and Canada

"This might well be called 'A Study of Stewardship Made Easy, for the author here con-denses a vast amount of well-digested thought and material on an essential phase of the Christian life. His analysis of the evils inherent in gambling, which appears in so many seductive forms, will be found especially interesting and informing. A much-needed book, coming at an appropriate time.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Chartered by Congress, June 15, 1916

Scouting offers a program of activity with achievement and recognition on three age levels. Beginning with Cubbing for boys nine to twelve, it carries through the period of early adolescence and Troop Scouting and continues with Senior Scouting for young men in their late teens and early twenties.

There is no break in the boy's interest as he passes on from Cubbing into Troop Scouting and from Troop Scouting into Senior Scouting—Sea Scouts, Explorers, and Rovers.

The Churches lead all institutions in organizing and administering Scout Troops. The Church has more to give in life-time values than any other type of parent institution. Scout leaders are required to maintain conditions such that the Church is supported in its efforts to help the boy to lead a truly religious life.

Consult your local telephone directory for the Boy Scout office in your city, or write to the Boy Scouts of America, Two Park Avenue, New York City.

Presbyterian Ministers' Fund has insured the lives of ministers, their wives and theological students at the lowest net cost. It is Interdenominational.

If you are eligible to purchase Life Insurance from the Fund, you cannot afford to purchase it elsewhere.

A Progressive

Presbyterian Journal

HE PRESBYTERIAN TRIBUNE is not an official publication of the Presbyterian Though sympathetic toward the boards and agencies of the church, it reserves the right to disagree with any of their policies and to suggest changes whenever it believes they are needed. Seeking the unity of the Church of Christ, it recognizes that in the present stage of religious development, Presbyterians should work loyally to strengthen their own denomination.

THE TRIBUNE aspires to be the organ of those members of the Presbyterian who are convinced that religion is vital and dynamic, that it does not function in a vacuum, and, to fulfill its purpose, must be expressed not only in the character of individuals but also in every institution and phase of human action. Thus it interprets the Gospel of Christ as personally and socially redemptive. Recognizing that civilization is threatened with disintegration, it is convinced that only the ethics and spirit of Jesus are adequate to save the world. In

In Preparing A PRINTING BUDGET

WHICH QUESTION do you ask?

As specialists in the field of Religious Printing we never have counseled ostentation or unnecessary extravagance on the part of our clients. Church and Welfare printing should be planned with due regard for the sources from which funds come. But cheap printing is more expensive than good printing, for cheap printing fails in its purpose to teach, to appeal or to interest.

Good printing, as we have learned to do it for the Church is surprisingly close in price to the cheapest you can get.
